2009 SCHEDULE

Clemson will face five 2008 bowl teams on the road during its 2009 football schedule announced by the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Tigers will have seven home games and five on the road in Dabo Swinney's first full season as head coach.

Clemson will travel to Georgia Tech, Maryland, Miami (FL), NC State and South Carolina during the 2009 season and those teams combined for 37 wins last year. Clemson is slated to play nine bowl teams overall during 2009.

Clemson's home ACC schedule includes visits from Boston College, the Atlantic Division Champion each of the last two years, division favorite Florida State, 2006 ACC Champion Wake Forest, and Coastal Division rival Virginia. Non-conference foes Middle Tennessee State, TCU, a team ranked in the top 10 last year, and Coastal Carolina are also slated to play at Clemson in 2009.

"This will be a challenging schedule," said Clemson Head Coach Dabo Swinney. "The ACC was the most balanced and competitive league in the country last year top to bottom with 10 of the 12 teams going to bowl games. It will be just as competitive this year. Seven of our eight league opponents went to bowl games last year and Virginia, will be much improved with the return of the quarterback who led them to nine wins in 2007.

"You like to get the season off to a good start, but we will be challenged from the beginning with an opener against a Middle Tennessee team that beat Maryland last year and our first ACC game is at Georgia Tech on a Thursday night so we will have a short turnaround to prepare for their option offense. Then we have a top-10 team in TCU coming to Death Valley.

"I do like the position of our open date (October 10) in that it is close to the middle of the season, and I do like the fact that we never have back to back road games."

Clemson will open the season on September 5 against Middle Tennessee, the latest start to the season on the calendar since 1998. Middle Tennessee defeated Maryland last year, 24-14, and suffered a narrow 23-21 defeat to a nine-win Virginia team in 2007. Rick Stockstill, the head coach for Middle Tennessee, served as an assistant coach at Clemson from 1989-2002 when he served under four different head coaches, the only assistant coach to serve under four different Clemson head coaches. He was replaced on the Clemson staff in 2003 by Dabo Swinney.

Clemson opens its ACC slate at Georgia Tech on Thursday night, September 10 in a game that will be televised nationally in ESPN. Georgia Tech was Dabo Swinney's first opponent last year when he took over at midseason for Tommy Bowden. Fourteen of the last 19 games in the series have been decided by a touchdown or less.

Boston College will travel to Clemson on September 19 for the Tigers first ACC home game. The September 19 date is the third winningest date in Clemson history on a percentage basis (8-1) and the game will be played on the 67-year anniversary of the opening of Clemson Memorial Stadium.

The Tigers defeated the Eagles in Boston last year 27-21, Clemson's first win over Boston College in 50 years. The two teams will play for the McFadden-O'Rourke Trophy for the second time and the most valuable player of the game will be presented the "Leather Helmet Award." C. J. Spiller won the honor last year when he gained 242 all-purpose running yards.

TCU, who finished seventh in the final polls last year, will travel to Clemson on September 26. This will be just the second time in the last 20 years that a non-conference team ranked in the top 10 in the nation the previous year will play the Tigers in Death Valley. The only other time took place in 2003 when Georgia came to Clemson after finishing third in the final polls in 2002. The number-seven final national ranking for TCU last year was the highest for the program since 1959 when it was also ranked seventh in the final AP poll. That year, Clemson defeated TCU in the first Bluebonnet Bowl by a 23-7 score. It was the highest ranked team Clemson head coach Frank Howard defeated in his 30 years with the Tigers. This will be the 50-year anniversary of that game.

Clemson will play at Maryland on October 3, then have two weeks to prepare to play Wake Forest at home on October 17. Clemson has won each of its last two games at Maryland. Clemson has won each of the last four meetings with the Demon Deacons at Clemson.

The Tigers will travel to Miami, FL for the first time since 2004 when it faces the Miami Hurricanes on October 24. The Tigers won the last meeting in Miami in overtime over a 10th ranked Miami team, but the Hurricanes won the last meeting at Clemson in 2005 in triple overtime, the longest game in Clemson history.

Swinney's Tigers will face Coastal Carolina at home on Halloween. It will be Clemson's first home game on Halloween since playing NC State in 1998 and the first Homecoming game on Halloween since 1931. Coastal Carolina is coached by former Clemson graduate assistant coach David Bennett.

The Tigers have four games in November, three against ACC teams, two of which are Atlantic Division rivals. Florida State comes to Clemson on November 7. The Seminoles won last year's meeting in Tallahassee, but they have lost three straight to the Tigers in Memorial Stadium by a total of 43 points.

Clemson travels to North Carolina State on November 14. The Tigers have won four in a row in the series for the first time since the 1981-85 era. Clemson rounds out its ACC schedule on November 21 against Virginia on Senior Day at Memorial Stadium. It will be the first time Virginia has been the "Senior Day" opponent since 1993 when the Tigers upset a top 20 Virginia team 23-14.

The regular season will close on November 28 in Columbia, SC when the Tigers face South Carolina. Clemson has won 10 of the last 12 in the series overall and nine of the last 10 played in Columbia dating to 1988.

SEASON OUTLOOK

Media from coast-to-coast evaluating Clemson's prospects for the 2009 season feel the Tigers are in a rebuilding mode. After all, few programs in the nation must replace their top ranked receiver in history, their number-two ranked rusher, number-two ranked passer in terms of efficiency, and number-two ranked interception leader and turnover forcer.

Head Coach Dabo Swinney begins his first full year as head coach looking for some answers at key skill position areas on offense and in the secondary at the safety position on defense. Aaron Kelly, James Davis, Cullen Harper and Michael Hamlin were all record setters in their areas of expertise over the last four years and were team leaders for a senior class that led Clemson to 32 wins and four bowl games over the last four years.

But, a closer look to the roster shows that Clemson does have some experienced players returning in key areas. While Clemson won't appear in many preseason top 25 polls, if any, the cupboard is not bare. Swinney will welcome back 53 lettermen, including 15 starters from last year's 7-6 team that closed the regular season with four wins in the last five games, earning the Tigers a January 1 Gator Bowl bid.

Among the returning lettermen, but not the returning starters, is senior running back C.J. Spiller. A candidate for the Heisman Trophy, Spiller has come off the bench much of his career behind Davis, the only Clemson player in history to lead the Tigers in rushing four consecutive years.

Spiller has had a spectacular three years and enters 2009 season ranked third nationally among active players in all-purpose running. He has scored 30 touchdowns, accounting for scores rushing, receiving, on kickoff returns and even by throwing a pass. He is perhaps the most exciting player in college football, a reputation that stems from his 12 career touchdowns of 50 yards or more, including six of 80 yards or more.

Joining Spiller as a returning speed demon on offense is wide receiver Jacoby Ford. The two-time ACC 60-meter indoor champion and 2009 NCAA champion had 55 catches for 710 yards last year as the second option behind Kelly. He moves up to the number-one receiver option in 2009 and is certainly capable of a 1000-yard season.

Clemson's offensive line will return all five starters from last year and will be anchored by senior Thomas Austin, a versatile, strong and quick player who has starting experience at center and guard. Austin was a second-team All-ACC player last year who was a three-time selection as ACC offensive Lineman of the Week, more selections for the honor than any other ACC player.

Swinney's defense returns eight starters, a strong stat for a unit that ranked in the top 25 in the nation in total defense, pass defense and scoring defense in 2008. While the Tigers must replace Michael Hamlin and Chris Clemons, one of the most productive safety combinations in school history, the Tigers have a strong defensive line led by defensive ends Ricky Sapp and DaQuan Bowers, leading linebacker tackler Kavell Conner and cornerbacks Crezdon Butler and Chris Chancellor.

The special teams will need an over view from a kicking standpoint, but Clemson's return game will be among the best in the nation with Spiller and Ford handling kickoff and punt return duties.

Offense (27 returning lettermen, 7 starters)

Clemson returns 27 lettermen and seven starters from an offense that averaged 339.3 yards per game last year, 219 per game in the air and 120 per contest on the ground. Clemson ranked in the top five in the ACC in total offense, scoring offense and passing offense last year and hopes to improve on those rankings in Swinney's first full year as head coach.

Billy Napier will serve as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. He is in his fourth year on the Clemson staff, his first as offensive coordinator. Swinney will continue to run a spread offense, but the attack will feature more running plays for the quarterback.

Who will lead Clemson under center will be the biggest question surrounding the Clemson football program this spring and summer. The Tigers have three returning players from last year's roster who will vie for the important position. Clemson is one of just two ACC schools (Boston College is the other) with a new starting quarterback and new head coach in 2009.

"The quarterback derby will be the talk of the spring and August practices," said Swinney. "But how we progress up front will be the key. We will have a tremendous competition for the starting quarterback position. I have great confidence in all of our quarterbacks. They are talented players. I know some people say if you have two quarterbacks you don't have any. But, I don't believe in that, at least this year because I know we have players who can get the job done at that position."

Willy Korn has the most experience among the quarterback candidates. The red-shirt sophomore from Byrnes High School in nearby Inman, SC has played eight games for 127 snaps under center as Cullen Harper's backup over the last two years.

Korn played two games as a first-year freshman in 2007, then suffered a season ending shoulder injury. He played in six games last year and made one start against Georgia Tech in Swinney's first game as head coach. But, during that game he was hit while attempting a pass and suffered a shoulder injury that limited his performance the remainder of the season.

For his limited action, Korn has outstanding statistics with a career efficiency rating of 132.9 thanks to 34-49 passing for 316 yards and two touchdowns. That is a 69.4 completion percentage. He has also shown ability as a runner with a pair of touchdowns on the ground.

Korn was a highly regarded quarterback coming out of Byrnes High School near Spartanburg, SC where he was ranked as the 25th best all-around player in the nation by Tom Lemming and a member of the ESPN 150 in addition to being chosen the Gatorade Player of the Year in South Carolina as a junior and senior. He threw for 125 touchdowns in his high school career, among the top figures in the history of high school football.

Kyle Parker is a second quarterback on the Clemson roster who had high rankings coming out of high school. The red-shirt freshman is a native of Jacksonville, FL who was ranked as the 34th best player in the nation regardless of position by ESPN.com. He helped his team to victory in the Under Armor All-America game in Orlando after his senior year.

Parker sat out last year on the gridiron, but was one of the top players on the Clemson baseball team in the spring of 2008. He will hold that stature this spring as well as a starting outfielder on Jack Leggett's team. He will have eight days this spring in which he goes through a football practice and plays a baseball game in the same afternoon and evening. Parker hit .303 with 14 home runs on the diamond last year when he became the first athlete in Clemson history to make first-team All-ACC in the spring semester after attending the fall semester in high school.

Mike Wade is a third quarterback on the Clemson roster. The junior has lettered as a safety and quarterback his first two years and also serves as Clemson's holder on placekicks.

C.J. Spiller needs 921 all-purpose yards to become the ACC career leader.

SEASON OUTLOOK

Clemson's top player on offense and top player on the team is All-ACC running back C.J. Spiller. Few Heisman Trophy candidates are not returning starters from the previous year, but Spiller is a legitimate candidate as he moves into the center role of the Clemson offense for the first time.

"Our game plan on offense will start with C.J. Spiller," said Swinney. "He is perhaps the most exciting, versatile player in college football. He had a great second half of the season with the Boston College game serving as an example of his all-around capabilities."

Spiller has gained a school record 4,907 yards in three years thanks to his all-around abilities as a runner and receiver. Last year he had 629 yards rushing and 436 yards receiving for 1065 yards from scrimmage. The receiving yardage figure was the second best in Clemson history for a season by a running back.

Spiller showed his all-around capabilities in Clemson's first win in 50 years over Boston College when he had 242 all-purpose yards, 55 rushing on eight attempts, 108 on seven receptions and 82 more on two kick returns. He was the recipient of the first "Leather Helmet Award" as the most valuable player of the Clemson vs. Boston College game.

A first-round draft selection had he gone pro after his junior year, Spiller returns to Clemson with 2,335 career rushing yards, 10th in school history and most among active ACC players, 917 receiving yards, second among running backs in school history, and 1,297 kickoff returns, fifth best in school history.

The native of Lake Butler, FL already owns 10 Clemson records, including the mark for touchdowns of 50 yards or more with 12, six of which have been at least 80 yards. Last fall, Spiller earned a 3.5 GPA in the classroom and became the first running back in school history to make first-team All-ACC and the Dean's List in the same semester.

While the Tigers have a running back capable of gaining 1000 yards rushing, Swinney has a receiver capable of gaining 1000 yards receiving. Clemson has had just two previous years in its history with a 1000-yard receiver and running back in the same year (2000 and 2007).

Ford is the top candidate to reach that 1000-yard mark among Clemson's pass catchers in 2009. Also a native of Florida, Ford and Spiller might be the fastest receiver/running back combination in the nation. Both have been All-Americans for Clemson's men's track team over the last three years. Ford in fact hold the ACC record in the 60 meters at 6.51, a time he attained when he won the 2009 national championship in the event at Texas A&M in March.

On the gridiron, Ford had 55 receptions for 710 yards and four scores last year when he was the second option behind Aaron Kelly, the top receiver in ACC history. Ford is also an outstanding kick returner and has over 3,000 all-purpose yards, 10th best in school history. He has a 9.0 average on 40 career rushes and needs just 50 kickoff return yards to reach 1,000 for his career.

Ford had at least one reception in every game last year, including a career high seven for 72 yards in the win at Boston College. He had just one catch for 50 yards against South Carolina, but it might have been the most pivotal play in Clemson's 31-14 win over its archrival. Ford, like Spiller has a habit of making big plays. He is second to Spiller in career touchdown plays of 50 yards or more with seven.

Spiller and Ford have strong support at their respective positions. Jamie Harper is the second leading returning rusher from last year with 133 on 34 attempts. At 6-2 and 220 pounds, he gives Clemson the inside power the Tigers had the last four years with James Davis. Andre Ellington is a red-shirt freshman running back who will also see considerable action in 2009.

Ford is the only one of Clemson's top three returning receivers from last year. In addition to Kelly, four-year letterman Tyler Grisham has also graduated with 139 career catches, ninth best in school history.

Xavier Dye, Marquan Jones and Terrence Ashe are returning lettermen at the wide receiver position. Dye had six catches for 75 yards, while Jones had 3-37. Ashe had 3-18, but had 10 catches in 2007. Red-shirt freshmen Brandon Ford and Jaron Brown along with returning lettermen Kyle Johnson will also be factors.

"Next to the quarterback race, the next biggest question on our team will be the wide receive position. We have talented player, but aside from Jacoby Ford, we are inexperienced. Every practice will count this spring and summer for the young players."

Clemson will also use a strong corps of tight ends.

Michael Palmer is the most experienced. The senior who has been a member of the Academic All-ACC team had 12 catches for 160 yards last year and three touchdowns. For his career he has 30 receptions for 318 yards and four scores.

"We are solid at tight end. Michael Palmer is a 'Jack of all trades' who has been steady and reliable throughout his entire career. I am also excited to have Rendrick Taylor back. He will cross train as an H-back, tight end and running back this spring. We also have outstanding players at this position in Chad Diehl, Durrell Barry and Dwayne Allen, a red-shirt freshman who will be a very good player."

Durrell Barry is also a reliable tight end and red-shirt freshman Dwayne Allen was a national top 100 player according to ESPN.com coming out of high school. Chad Diehl is a top blocker from the full back position, while Rendrick Taylor is also back after a red-shirt year and will give the Tigers strength as a blocker and receiver.

Last year, Clemson had to replace four starters in the offensive line. In years Clemson has had to replace four returning starters in the offensive line since 1963, Clemson has had a winning percentage of 54 percent. Last year, with Clemson in that situation, the Tigers finished 7-6, a 53.9 winning percentage.

In 2009, Clemson returns five starters in the offensive line. Since 1963, Clemson has had a winning percentage of 76 percent when it returns five starters in the offensive line. Swinney is optimistic Clemson will be able to improve significantly in terms of its ground game in 2009.

"The bad news for us last year was that we had to replace four starters in the offensive line and had to play five freshmen who had never played before. The good news this year is that we return five starters in the offensive line and all those young players are a year older and wiser."

Leading the way on the offensive line is Outland Trophy Candidate Thomas Austin. A starter as a center and guard over the last two years, Austin has led Clemson in knockdown blocks each of the last two seasons. A second-team All-ACC center last year, he was the first Clemson offensive lineman to be named ACC offensive Lineman of the Week three times in the same year since Stacy Long in 1989, a year he was named first-team All-

Clemson should be strong in the secondary with the return of Chris Chancellor (38), DeAndre McDaniel's (2) move to safety.

SEASON OUTLOOK

American. Austin is already a five-time recipient of the award for his career, tied for third in Clemson history.

Austin is slated to start the spring at guard and Mason Cloy will be at center. Cloy was named a first-team Freshman All-American in 2008 when he had 58 knockdown blocks, second best on the team. Cloy played over 600 snaps and started all but one game as a freshman.

Sophomore Antoine McClain is a strong candidate to start at right guard. McClain was a highly recruited player out of Alabama who saw over 100 snaps of action last year as a first year freshman. He has slimmed down to 303 pounds and is ready to have an impact on the line.

Barry Humphries and David Smith are candidates for significant playing time as well. Humphries started seven games for Clemson's 9-4 team of 2007 and ranked second on that team in knockdown blocks. But, he played just two games for 42 snaps last year due to an ACL injury. He should be healthy for this year and the senior will be one of the team's top leaders. Smith, a native of Greenville, started four games last year, but was also limited the second half of the season due to injury.

Chris Hairston and Landon Walker are two returning starters at tackle and should be in those positions again in 2009. Hairston is an outstanding red-shirt junior who played in 11 of the 13 games, 10 as a starter. He suffered two separate injuries last year that limited his play, but he had an 81.4 film grade for the year, second best on the team. He is already a veteran of over 700 snaps.

Walker started 10 of the 13 games last year at tackle as a red-shirt freshman. The son of a member of Clemson's 1981 National Championship team had the third best average grade among offensive linemen from the Clemson coaches and played over 600 snaps for the year. He might have had his best game against South Carolina in the regular season finale when he had five knockdown blocks.

Three more offensive tackles will be in the mix entering spring practice, making the tackle position one of the deepest on the Clemson team. Jamarcus Grant was a starting tackle in the season opener against Alabama, as was Cory Lambert, who started seven games at tackle and guard over the 2008 season. J.K. Jay is a first year freshman who enrolled at Clemson in January.

Defense (25 returning lettermen, 8 starters)

Clemson has a new defensive coordinator in Kevin Steele, who has served with distinction on defensive staffs at Tennessee, Nebraska, Alabama, Florida State and the Carolina Panthers.

Clemson's defense was outstanding in many areas last year, ranking in the top 20 in the nation in scoring defense, total defense and pass defense. The pass defense was especially outstanding leading to a number-two national ranking in fewest yards per pass attempt allowed.

The leader of the 2008 defense was first-team All-ACC safety Michael Hamlin and he will be difficult to replace as Clemson's starting free safety for the last four years. Hamlin finished his Clemson career second in defensive takeaways and he was 11th in the nation in interceptions with six. He and classmate Chris Clemons combined for 649 tackles over the last four years, the most tackles by safeties in the same class in Clemson history.

While it will be difficult to replace that safety combination, Clemson's secondary should be outstanding. The Tigers return starting cornerbacks Chris Chancellor and Crezdon Butler, who have started together in the secondary for each of the last two years and 26 consecutive games. Both are legitimate Thorpe Award candidates for 2009.

Butler has 10 career interceptions for 196 yards, tied for the most interceptions and the most return yards among active ACC players. He had four interceptions for 142 return yards last year, the third most interception return yards in Clemson history. His 196 career yards rank third best in Clemson history and just 79 off the school record held by Rex Varn (1976-79).

The native of Asheville, NC who established career rushing records at his high school, the same school that produced former North Carolina All-American Charlie Justice, had 52 tackles last year and has 147 for his career. He is a veteran of 39 career games and 26 career starts.

Chancellor has actually started more games in his career with 30, including 28 in a row dating to the 2006 South Carolina game. The native of Florida has eight career interceptions for 83 returning yards, including four last year. He had 37 tackles in his 729 plays last year and had nine passes broken up.

Clemson has a strong group of veteran reserves at cornerback. Marcus Gilchrist saw a lot of time as a nickel back last year as a sophomore and will play behind Chancellor. He had 21 tackles last year in 252 plays and is also an experienced punt and kickoff returner.

Byron Maxwell might be the hardest hitter in the secondary and he will back up Butler. Maxwell had 54 tackles last year, 46 of which were first hits. He had eight tackles in the win at Virginia, including two tackles for loss, and had a caused fumble that changed the momentum of the game. He is also regarded as one of the top special teams players in the ACC with 21 special teams tackles last year, and was named Clemson's top specials teams performer in four different games last year.

"We have one of the deepest cornerback positions in the nation," said Swinney. "We have guys who can cover and guys who can hit. These guys have shown they can make game changing plays."

While Clemson must replace both starting safeties, secondary coach Charlie Harbison, who is back at Clemson for his second tour of duty, does have one returning starter at a safety position. Starting linebacker DeAndre McDaniel has been moved from linebacker to strong safety and solve one of the safety issues.

McDaniel had 77 tackles last year to rank fifth on the Clemson team. He also had four tackles for loss and a fumble return for a score against Nebraska in the Gator Bowl. He had six passes broken up from a linebacker position last year and that should double this year. Carlton Lewis, a red-shirt freshman, figures to be the top replacement at strong safety entering spring practice.

"DeAndre McDaniel might be the best all-around defensive player on our team," said Swinney. "He was a bit out of position last year and is a natural safety. The big battle in the secondary will be for the other safety position."

Sadat Chambers, who has lettered on offense and defense over his Clemson career, is the prime candidate to start at free safety. Chambers was a second team safety last year when he had 21 tackles. He lettered as a productive running back in 2007. Rashard Hall, another red-shirt freshman, is his backup entering the spring, while Carlton Lewis and Spencer Adams will also compete for playing time.

"I think our defensive line will be the strength of the defense, perhaps the entire team," said Swinney. "We have talented, athletic players who work well together. It is a deep group. I am anxious to see what they can do in Coach Steele's style of defense."

Clemson returns three starters across the front four of Steele's defense for 2009. Ricky Sapp is the leader and most experienced at that position from his Bandit end position. The senior was having a strong junior year in 2008 with 28 tackles, including a team best 10 tackles for loss through the first 10 games. But, he suffered a torn ACL at Virginia and missed the rest of the season. He will sit out spring practice and return for the fall.

For his 36-game career, Sapp has 26 tackles for loss, including 11 sacks to go with an even 100 tackles. He also has 37 quarterback pressures, most among active Tigers.

Senior Kevin Alexander is a returning starter at defensive end and looks to have an outstanding final year. The native of Florida had 34 tackles last year in 13 games, 10 as a starter. Kourtnei Brown is another athletic end who will make a strong contribution. He had 21 tackles last season as a sophomore.

Clemson really has three returning starters for the two defensive end positions. DaQuan Bowers started six games last year and finished with 47 tackles, most among all Clemson front four linemen. He had a strong finish to his freshman year with six tackles, including three for loss against Nebraska and he was named Clemson's Most Valuable Player.

Clemson returns Jarvis Jenkins at the nose guard position and must replace 2008 senior Dorell Scott at defensive tackle. Jenkins had a solid sophomore year when he started 12 of he 13 games and had 36 tackles, 30 of which were first hits. He finished the year with 10 tackles for loss to tie Sapp for the team lead.

Brandon Thompson and Jamie Cumbie are two more returning defensive linemen who will see plenty of playing time this fall. Thompson was supposed to red-shirt his freshman year in 2008, but injuries forced him to active duty. He responded with 25 tackles as a backup, including five tackles for loss. Cumbie sat out all but one game last year and received an injury red-shirt year. A Parade All-American out of high school, Cumbie is poised for a break out season after injuring both wrists in 2008. Miguel Chavis is another defensive lineman with considerable experience.

"We should be much improved at linebacker this year. A year ago we had two players who were playing for the first time and another who had played as a reserve, but had never been a starter. Coach Steele will coach the linebackers and he has a great track record coaching this position."

Clemson returns two starters at the linebacker positions, plus a third player with starting experience. Kavell Conner was Clemson's top tackler last year with 125 stops and he ranked among the top 12 stoppers in the ACC last year. He started all 13 games a year ago and had a lot to do with Clemson leading the ACC in fewest points per game allowed in league games.

Brandon Maye had an outstanding red-shirt freshman season at middle linebacker. The native of Alabama had 12 tackles in his very first game last year against the school from his home state and he continued to be productive the rest of the year. He finished with 87 tackles, in 12 games to rank fourth on the team overall. He made first-team Freshman All-American according to the Football Writers Association and also made first-team Academic All-ACC after making the Dean's List in the classroom.

Scotty Cooper looks to be the third starter on the second line of defense. The junior had 28 tackles last year as an off an on starter at strongside linebacker. Other linebackers in the picture will be sophomore Daniel Andrews, senior Jeremy Campbell, sophomore Stanley Hunter, and red-shirt freshmen Tig Willard and Tarik Rollins.

Special Teams

Clemson must replace multi-year starters Mark Buchholz and Jimmy Maners at the two kicking positions. Buchholz made 15-21 field goals last year and was perfect on 40 extra points in leading the team in scoring with 85 points. He established a Clemson record for consecutive extra points with a perfect 88-88 performance over his two years on the team.

Maners finished his Clemson career third in punting average with a 41.7 average. He had 13 punts inside the 20 last year and 29 for his career. He was also outstanding in the classroom and was a Weaver-James Corrigan Scholar Athlete by the Atlantic Coast Conference in 2009.

Spencer Benton, a red-shirt freshman, looks to take over the placekicking duties, but will be pressured by Richard Jackson. Dawson Zimmerman, who started two games and punted in three last year, should be the starting punter. Zimmerman had a 38.5 average for his 12 punts last year.

Clemson is in good shape when it comes to the return game. Spiller ranked 14th in the nation in kickoff returns last year and has three career kickoff returns for touchdowns. Ford is also experienced in both areas and has a punt return and kickoff return of over 90 yards for scores on his resume.

Kavell Conner led the Tigers in tackles with 125 in 2008.

CLEMSON NOTES

Clemson Team Notes

- Won four of its last five regular season games to earn a January 1 Bowl bid, in the Konica Minolta Gator Bowl, Clemson's first appearance in a January bowl game since the 2004 Chick-fil-A Bowl.
- Clemson's fourth consecutive bowl appearance and ninth in the last 10 years.
- Clemson posted a ninth consecutive winning season, one of just 14 Division I schools with nine consecutive winning seasons.
- Ranked in the top five in the ACC in scoring offense and scoring defense, the only ACC team to rank in the top four in both categories
- Only ACC school to rank in the top three in the league in both pass offense and pass defense.
- Clemson 2008 seniors finished with 32 victories over the last four years, tied for the most wins by a Clemson senior class in the last 15 years.
- First senior class in Clemson history to post winning record against Florida State and South Carolina.
- Ranked 20th in final Sagarin computer poll at end of regular season.
- Played the 16th ranked schedule according to the NCAA.
- First Clemson team to defeat Boston College in 50 years, the Tigers gained a 27-21 win in Boston on November 1.
- Fourteen seniors on the Gator Bowl roster suited up for that game with their academic degrees already on their resume.
- *Program established record for season ticket sales with 58,134 and ranked 18th in the nation in average attendance. Also led the ACC in average home attendance.
- Had school record three players named to the Senior Bowl (James Davis, Aaron Kelly, Michael Hamlin) and one player named to East-West Shrine Game (Aaron Kelly).

Offense

- Led the ACC in passing offense with 219 yards per game. Team ranked second in the ACC in completion percentage with 62 percent mark. Team ranked third in the ACC in pass efficiency offense.
- Led the ACC in redzone offense in league games with scores on 18 of 19 redzone possessions.
- Achieved a top four ranking in the ACC in total offense even though the Tigers faced six of the top 25 teams in the nation in total defense during the regular season.
- Had two of the top pass receivers in the ACC in Aaron Kelly (3rd) and Jacoby Ford (6th). Both were also in the top six in reception yardage.
- Team featured Clemson's career leader in receptions (Aaron Kelly), number-two ranked player in passing efficiency (Cullen Harper) and number two ranked player in rushing (James Davis).

Defense

- Led the ACC in scoring defense in conference games, allowing just 16.8 points per game.
- Led the ACC in pass defense in conference games, allowing just 139.4 yards per game.
- Also led in pass efficiency defense in league games with 94.8 rating points.
- Allowed just 21 touchdowns, the fewest allowed in the ACC.

- Second in the ACC in total defense in conference games, allowing just 279.5 yards per game.
- Second in the ACC and in the top 15 in the nation in scoring defense, allowing 17.3 points per game.
- Led the ACC and ranked second in the nation in fewest yards allowed per pass attempt. Team allowed just 5.24 yards per pass attempt for the season, second best by a Clemson defense since 1964.
- Ranked in the top 20 in the nation in total defense, scoring defense and pass efficiency defense.
- Did not allow an opponent to pass for more than 200 yards in nine consecutive games, the best streak by a Clemson team in the last 30 years.
- Led the ACC in kickoff return coverage overall and in league games, the first time Clemson has led the ACC in that category.

Nine Straight Winning Seasons

With its win over South Carolina in the final regular-season game, Clemson clinched a ninth consecutive winning season.

The streak goes back to 2000 when Clemson was 9-3. The last non-winning season was 1999, Tommy Bowden's first year, when Clemson was 6-6. The last losing season was 1998 (3-8).

Entering this year, Clemson was one of 16 teams who had a winning season every year of the 21st Century. Two of the 16, Michigan and Auburn, dropped off the list after 3-9 and 5-7 seasons, respectively. Southern Mississippi won its last five games, including a bowl victory to get to 7-6 and keep its streak going.

The 14 schools who have had a winning season every year of this decade are Boise State, Boston College, Clemson, Florida, Florida State, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Louisiana State, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Southern Mississippi, Texas, Texas Tech, and Virginia Tech. As you can see, five of the 14 on the list are from the ACC.

Clemson Ranked 16th in Strength of Schedule

Clemson's 2008 schedule ranked as the 16th most difficult in the nation in 2008 according to the NCAA. Clemson's schedule included games against six ACC teams that went to bowl games, plus non-conference teams Alabama and South Carolina, meaning the Tigers faced eight bowl teams in 2008. Clemson's Division I-A opponents had a combined record of 70-52 when not playing Clemson in 2008 for a .574 winning percentage, 16th best in the nation. Clemson played eight teams that had winning records in 2008.

Five Clemson Football Players Named Academic All-ACC Spiller, First-team on Field and Off

C.J. Spiller led five Clemson football players on the 2008 ACC's Academic All-ACC football team. Spiller, also a first-team All-ACC selection on the field, was a first-team selection in the classroom as well.

The Clemson junior was joined on the team by teammates Thomas Austin, Mark Buchholz, Jimmy Maners and Brandon Maye. With five selections, Clemson was second among league teams, trailing only Maryland, who had eight. Austin, Buchholz and Maners all made the Academic team for the second straight year.

Spiller posted a Dean's List GPA of 3.5 in sociology for the fall semester and became the first Clemson football player since 2000 to make the Dean's List and first-team All-ACC in the same year. Spiller was the first-team All-Purpose player on the All-ACC team this year when he led the league in all-purpose running with 1,770 yards. He has now established 10 Clemson records as he enters his senior year as one of the top returning players in the nation regardless of position.

The last Clemson football player to make first-team All-ACC on the field and in the classroom in the same semester was Kyle Young, a center who accomplished the feat as a junior in 2000. Spiller became the first running back in Clemson history to accomplish the feat. He was one of four ACC players this year to make first-team All-ACC on the field and in the classroom, joining Boston College linebacker Mark Herzlich, Maryland center Edwin Williams and Maryland punter Travis Baltz.

Austin made second-team All-ACC on the field and first-team in the classroom. The rising senior led Clemson in knockdown blocks when he started at center and guard over the course of the season.

Maye was Clemson's fourth leading tackler with 87 stops, including five tackles for loss. A red-shirt freshman, Maye made first-team Freshman All-American according to the Football Writers Association.

Both of Clemson's kickers were named to the team. Mark Buchholz made 15-21 field goals last year and made the Academic All-ACC team for the second straight year. Jimmy Maners, Clemson's fourth ranked punter in school history, also made first-team Academic All-ACC.

Spiller Third Most Explosive Player in College Football for 2009

Clemson running back C.J. Spiller is ranked as the third most explosive player in college football for the 2009 season according to Rivals.com. Spiller, a senior from Lake Butler, FL, is listed behind just Jahvid Best of California and Dez Bryant, a wide receiver from Oklahoma State.

Spiller was a first-team All-ACC player as a specialist last year when he led the ACC in all-purpose running with 1,770 yards. He has a Clemson record 4,908 all-purpose yards and needs just 921 to become the ACC's career leader. The record is currently held by Leon Johnson of North Carolina who had 5,828 for the Tar Heels between 1993-96.

Spiller holds 10 Clemson records, including the most touchdown plays in a career of 50 yards or more with 12, including six career touchdown plays of at least 80 yards, also a Clemson record. He has 30 career touchdowns, fifth in school history.

Tigers Ranked in Top 20 in 6 Defensive Areas

Clemson ranked in the top 20 in the nation in six different defensive categories during the 2008 season. Clemson finished the year second in the nation in fewest yards per pass attempt allowed (5.24), 10th in pass efficiency defense, 12th in pass defense (yards allowed per game), 11th in interceptions (19), 13th in scoring defense, and 18th in total defense.

The most impressive national ranking was certainly the number-two ranking in fewest passing yards allowed per attempt. Only Southern California at 4.57 yards per attempt, was better than Clemson. The 5.24 figure by the Tigers was also the second best by a Clemson team since 1964. Only a 5.16 figure by the 1990 Clemson defense that ranked first in the nation in total defense and included eight future NFL players, is better over the last 45 years.

On an individual standpoint, two Tigers ranked in the top 25 in various statistical categories. Michael Hamlin ranked 11th in the nation in interceptions per game with six in 13 games for 0.46 per game. C.J. Spiller ranked 14th in the nation in kickoff return average with a 27.16 figure, and he ranked 21st in the nation in all-purpose running yards per game at 147.5.

Clemson finished the year ranked in the top 25 in the nation in pass defense, scoring defense and total defense for the fourth straight year. Clemson was one of just nine schools nationally to rank in the top 20 in the nation in all three categories in 2008.

Clemson Had Six Former Players at NFL Combine

Clemson had six former players who attended the NFL combine at Lucas Oil Stadium in Indianapolis, IN February 18-24. The list of former Tigers attending included James Davis, Michael Hamlin, Cullen Harper, Aaron Kelly, Dorell Scott and Chris Clemons.

With six former players attending, Clemson ranked in a tie for ninth among all schools as far as schools representation at the annual event that will help NFL scouts make draft decisions in April. Southern California had the most representatives with 11, while LSU was second with nine. Penn State, Georgia, Ohio State, and Oklahoma, had eight apiece, while Wisconsin and Oregon had seven apiece.

Clemson had six representatives along with California, Cincinnati, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Davis was with the running backs. He finished his Clemson career ranked second in school history in career touchdowns and career rushing yards. Harper finished his Clemson career second in career passing efficiency and touchdown passes, while Hamlin finished second in career takeaways and third in interceptions. Kelly finished as not only Clemson's, but the ACC's career reception leader. Scott and Clemons were three-year starters for the Clemson program.

Thomas Austin made First-Team Academic All-ACC in 2008.

Clemson Football Award Winners Announced

Spiller Recipient of Three Awards at Annual Banquet

Clemson held its annual football banquet on Saturday, January 10 at The Madren Center on the Clemson campus. Head Coach Dabo Swinney and his staff presented many awards for the 2008 season.

Running back C.J. Spiller carried off the most hardware.

The junior who was named first-team All-ACC was named the most valuable player on offense, was named a first-team Strength All-American and also was the co-recipient of the Vickery Hall Award for academic accomplishment. Spiller made the Dean's List in addition to his first-team All-ACC honors on the field, the first Clemson player to do both in the same semester since Kyle Young in 2000. Brandon Maye, a first-team freshman All-America linebacker, also made the Dean's List and was a co-recipient with Spiller of the Vickery Hall Award.

Michael Hamlin was named the Most Valuable Player of the Defense. Hamlin finished the year with 110 tackles and six interceptions. He ranked 11th in the nation in interceptions.

Landmark First Win for Swinney

Dabo Swinney gained his first win as a head coach when the Tigers defeated Boston College on the road on November 1, 2008. The Tigers won the contest by a score of 27-21 thanks to a fourth-quarter comeback. Not only was it Swinney's first victory, it was Clemson's first win over Boston College since 1958, its first win in the Boston area since 1952 and its first-ever win at Alumni Stadium. It was Clemson's first fourth-quarter-comeback win since the 2007 South Carolina game, a contest Clemson won 23-21 on a 35-yard field goal by Mark Buchholz on the last play of the game.

Swinney took over the head coaching position on October 13. His first game was the following Saturday against Georgia Tech. Georgia Tech came from behind to win 21-17.

Swinney coached against some outstanding coaches in his seven games. The list started with Paul Johnson, who already has over 100 victories as a head coach, including his time at Georgia Southern, Navy, and Georgia Tech. Swinney defeated Jeff Jagodzinski at Boston College in his second game, a coach who took Boston College to the ACC Championship game each of his first two years with the Eagles. He then finished the year with wins over David Cutcliffe, Al Groh, and Steve Spurrier.

All In

When Dabo Swinney took over as Clemson's head coach, one of his first tasks was to connect his team with the community, on campus and off. He has been successful in this endeavor on many fronts. Below is a rundown on some of the things he and the Tigers have done in this area since he took over as interim head coach on October 13.

- October 18 - Began the Tiger Walk tradition, whereby the team gets off the bus on gameday at Perimeter Road at the entrance to Lot 5, the parking lot behind the West endzone. The team then walks through the parking lot and greets Tiger fans, who line a path for the team. Fans were 10 deep on either side for the entire 200-yard walk.
- October 21 - Swinney invited the Clemson student-body to attend practice the Tuesday of Clemson's open-date week in October. Over 700 students attended, and he had three Clemson students attempt a field goal against a live rush, field a punt, and attempt a punt.
- October 22 - Swinney cancelled practice (open-date week) and brought the entire team to a children's hospital in Greenville to visit young patients fighting cancer.
- November 12 - After a Wednesday night team meal prior to the Duke game, Swinney and members of the team brought 40 pizzas to students as they waited in line in tents for tickets to the Clemson vs. South Carolina game.
- November 12,13 - Members of the football team registered on the National Bone Marrow Registry in the locker room after practice. Aaron Kelly and his roommate (Trey Robinson) led the drive.
- November 14 - Took the team to Tigerama, Clemson's homecoming pep rally and entertainment show at Littlejohn Coliseum the Friday night before the Duke game. Swinney along with Michael Hamlin and Aaron Kelly spoke to the crowd. It was the first time a Tiger football team attended the event.
- November 21 - On the way to the airport for the Virginia game, the team stopped at Clemson Elementary School to visit with children and sign autographs.
- November 28 - Former Clemson President Dr. Robert C. Edwards met the team before it departed for the hotel in Anderson. Edwards was in ill health and had wished Tiger teams in all sports well before they left on road trips. He accomplished his goal with the help of EMS, as he and Swinney greeted just about every player from a stretcher as they walked onto the team buses. Just six days later, Edwards passed away at the age of 94.

Alabama Grads Have Coached at Clemson

Dabo Swinney was named Clemson's interim head coach on October 13 after Tommy Bowden resigned. Swinney was then named head coach at a press conference the Monday (December 1) after the Tigers defeated South Carolina 31-14 in the regular-season finale.

Swinney is the fifth Alabama graduate to serve as Clemson's head coach. He is a 1993 Alabama graduate who played for the Crimson Tide between 1989-92. Four of the five were promoted from the existing staff, including Swinney.

The list of Alabama grads who have been the leader on the Tiger sidelines includes the two winningest coaches in school history and a third who led Clemson to its resurgence in 1977. The Tigers have had four named ACC Coach-of-the-Year twice apiece, and three are Alabama graduates.

Frank Howard was a member of Alabama's 1930 undefeated team that downed Washington State in the 1931 Rose Bowl. He then came to Clemson in 1931 when Jess Neely became head coach. Neely came to Clemson after having served on Wallace Wade's staff at Alabama.

Howard served as the line coach under Neely at Clemson between the 1931-39 seasons, then he became Clemson's head coach in 1940 when Neely left for Rice. Howard was Clemson head coach from 1940-69 and won eight conference titles, two Southern Conference and six ACC. He had a record of 165-118-12 and is still #1 in Clemson history in victories.

In December of 1969 after Howard retired, Clemson administrators hired another Alabama graduate, Hootie Ingram. Ingram is a 1955 Alabama graduate and served as Clemson's head coach from 1970-72. He posted a 12-21 record and later served as athletic director at both Florida State and Alabama.

Charley Pell, a 1961 Alabama graduate, served as Clemson's head coach from 1977 through the 1978 regular season. He took the Tigers to the Gator Bowl in 1977, ending Clemson's 18-year drought without a bowl appearance. Pell then coached the Tigers to a 10-1 regular season in 1978. He took the head-coaching position at Florida in December. He was named ACC Coach-of-the-Year in both 1977 and 1978, and he finished with an 18-4-1 record in his two years at Clemson.

Pell was succeeded by his offensive line coach, Danny Ford, another Alabama graduate. Ford played for Bear Bryant from 1967-69 and graduated from Alabama in 1970. He had a 96-29-4 record at Clemson, and the 96 wins are second-most to Howard in Tiger history. The Tigers were the fifth-winningest team in nation in the 1980s and Ford coached every game in that decade.

Ford coached Clemson to the National Championship in 1981, the only national title in school history. He owns the school record for wins over top-20 teams (20) and also coached Clemson to a 6-2 record in bowl games. He won five ACC titles, all in the 1980s. He led Clemson to a 30-2-2 record between 1981-83 as well.

Clemson All-ACC Selections

Clemson had four players earn five spots on the 2008 All-ACC football team. The Tigers had two first-team selections and three second-team selections, tied for the third-most overall selections in the ACC. C.J. Spiller and Michael Hamlin were the first-team picks, while Aaron Kelly and Thomas Austin were second-team choices.

Spiller was named First-Team All-ACC specialist and second-team running back. The junior from Lake Butler, FL led the ACC in all-purpose yards per game. He is in the top 15 in the ACC in rushing, receiving yards, touchdowns, kickoff returns, punt returns, and all-purpose yards. He had over 1000 yards from scrimmage on rushing and pass plays. Overall, he scored 11 touchdowns, seven rushing, three receiving, and one on a kickoff return.

Hamlin is the leader of Clemson's defense that ranked in the top 15 in the nation in scoring defense and passing defense. He led the Tigers and was 11th in the nation in interceptions and returned the picks for 111 yards. He finished his career third in Clemson history in career interceptions (14) and his 18 takeaways are second only behind all-time great Terry Kinard. He had 110 tackles, second-most on Clemson's defense that is 13th in the nation in scoring defense and 12th in pass efficiency defense.

Austin is the leader of Clemson's offensive line and was named Second-Team All-ACC center. He has started at center and offensive guard over the course of the season and led the offensive line in snaps starts (13), and knockdown blocks (97). He was a three-time ACC Offensive Lineman-of-the-Week selection, tied for the most selections in the league.

Kelly was Clemson's top receiver with 67 catches for 722 yards and four scores in 2008. He was third in the ACC in catches and sixth in receiving yards per game. He became the ACC's career reception leader earlier this year and finished with 232 in his career. He also set the Clemson career record for receiving yards and reception touchdowns.

Seventeen Former Tigers on NFL Rosters

Seventeen former Tigers were on NFL rosters in 2008. That includes three on practice squads. Three members of Clemson's starting offensive line from 2006 are on NFL rosters, Nathan Bennett, Dustin Fry, and Barry Richardson.

The list includes safety Brian Dawkins of the Eagles and defensive tackle Trevor Pryce of the Ravens. Dawkins was in his 13th season in the NFL and was named to the Pro Bowl this year, his seventh career selection, most in Clemson history. Pryce has played in four Pro Bowls and has two Super Bowl Championship rings.

Clemson had two rookies on NFL rosters, Phillip Merling of the Dolphins and Barry Richardson of the Chiefs. Merling was the #32 overall pick of the NFL draft, while Richardson went in the sixth round to the Chiefs.

Wideout Chansi Stuckey caught a touchdown pass from Brett Favre in each of the first two games for the New York Jets in 2008. Gaines Adams returned an interception 45 yards for a touchdown in the Buccaneers' overtime win against the Bears. Merling also had an interception return for a score in 2008.

Accomplishments of Tiger Seniors

- Had a 32-19 record, the most wins by a Tiger class since the seniors of 2003 had the exact same record.
- The first class in Clemson history to post a winning record against both Florida State and South Carolina. Clemson is 3-1 against both schools during the last four years.
- Went to four consecutive bowl games, the first class to do that since 2003.
- Had six victories over top-20 teams, including a road win at #9 Florida State in 2006, tied for the second-highest ranked road win in school history.
- Won five straight games against top-25 teams to tie a school record.
- Ranked in the final top 25 poll twice and ranked in the top 25 in 34 of the weekly rankings in the last four years.
- Defeated the ACC Champion in 2005 (Florida State) and 2006 (Wake Forest) along with downing 2008 Atlantic Division Champion Boston College on the road.
- Finished .500 or better all four years in ACC play and overall.

CLEMSON NOTES

- Defense was in the top 20 in scoring defense all four years.
- Had Clemson's all-time leading receiver (Aaron Kelly), #2 rusher (James Davis), #2 player in forcing turnovers (Michael Hamlin), and #2 player in passing efficiency (Cullen Harper).
- Defeated Boston College on the road in 2008, the first win over the Eagles in 50 years.
- 14 members of the class received their undergraduate degree before they played their last game.

Eight First-Year Freshmen Saw Action

Clemson's class of 24 new freshman scholarship players was rated #2 in the nation by ESPN.com in February of 2008. Six of those players saw action in the first game of the year against #24 Alabama. The list includes Da'Quan Bowers, rated as the #1 player in the nation by ESPN.com, starting punter Dawson Zimmerman, Jamie Harper, Stanley Hunter, Marquan Jones, and Antoine McClain. Two more, Daniel Andrews and Brandon Thompson, played against The Citadel.

In the last 27 years (including 2008), Clemson has played 159 first-year freshmen, an average of 5.9 per year. Sixty-six of them have been offensive players, 88 have been defensive players, and five have been kickers.

The record for first-year freshmen played in one season is 11 (1985,07). The most wins for a team that has played at least eight first-year freshmen is 10, set in 1989, a team that played eight first-year freshmen in its 10-2 season.

The Tigers have played at least one first-year freshmen all 26 years of the rule. The fewest was the one used in 2002 (Justin Miller).

Five Tigers Named Permanent Captains

Seniors Michael Hamlin, James Davis, Tyler Grisham, Cullen Harper, and Jock McKissic were all named permanent co-captains of the 2008 team. The announcement was made after a team vote in December.

It is the second straight year that Hamlin and Harper were named co-captains. They are the first two-time captains at Clemson since Chad Carson was named a co-captain in 2000 and 2001. All five players are seniors in 2008 and have had much to do with the Tigers' strong finish to the season.

Hamlin and McKissic were named co-captains of the defense, while Davis and Harper were named co-captains of the offense. Grisham represents the special teams.

Injury Summary

One of the reasons for Clemson's 3-4 start was a rash of injuries, especially on the offensive and defensive lines. As you can see by the list below, Clemson had 13 different players miss games this year due to injury, and eight are offensive or defensive linemen. As a result, Clemson started seven different offensive line units in the first nine games. The Tigers had 42 different players start a game in 2008 and only eight players started all 13 games.

Starting defensive tackle Rashaad Jackson made his first appearance of the year at Boston College on November 1. Clemson won four of five to close the regular season with him in the lineup.

Jamie Cumbie started the Alabama game, suffered a wrist injury, and was lost for the season. On the offensive line, starters Chris Hairston, Barry Humphries, and David Smith missed a combined 167 games. Cory Lambert did not miss a game, but he suffered a foot injury on the second play at Wake Forest and did not return. Humphries played two games, due to a torn ACL. Smith played against Boston College, but he was held out of the Florida State game because he had a slight injury to his other ankle.

In terms of the skill-position players, C.J. Spiller missed the last three quarters of the Wake Forest game and all of the Georgia Tech game. He is arguably Clemson's top offensive player.

Overall, 13 different Tigers missed 47 total player-games this year. That list includes eight players who had been a starter. Those eight starters missed 34 combined games. Another starter was lost for the season in the win over Virginia, as Ricky Sapp suffered a torn ACL.

Last year when Clemson had a 9-3 regular-season record, it had seven different players miss at least one game due to injury. Those seven players missed a total of 39 games during the 13-game schedule. Only three of those players were considered starters, however, and they missed just a total of seven games. The most significant injury last year was an ankle injury to starting wideout Jacoby Ford, who missed the last five games.

Clemson Breaks Season-Ticket Record

Clemson broke the season-ticket record for the second straight year in 2008. A total of 58,134 season tickets were sold, nearly 150 more than the 57,991 sold in 2007, which was the previous record-breaking number.

Clemson finished the year with an average of 78,000 fans per home game, 18th best in the nation. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in the nation in average home attendance every year since 1983.

Clemson's Top Season-Ticket Seasons

5.	1989	57,529

Special Teams Improvement

The most consistent area of the Clemson football team this year might be special teams. This was the first year in 10 seasons that Clemson has had a special teams coordinator on its staff, as Running Backs Coach André Powell was named to that position prior to the season. Below are some highlights in each area.

- Placekicks - Mark Buchholz missed just six kicks all season. He was 40-40 on extra points and 15-21 on field goals.
- Blocked Kicks - Clemson had one blocked extra-point attempt and one blocked punt this year. The blocked punt

Daquan Bowers was Clemson's MVP of the Konica Minolta Gator Bowl.

CLEMSON NOTES

came against South Carolina by Jamie Harper. Clemson also blocked an extra point for the first time since 1995.

- Kickoff Coverage - Opponents had an average start at its own 25 after a kickoff compared to an average start of the Clemson 31 for the Tigers. Twenty-one times in 64 kickoffs, the opposition has started at its own 21 or less. Clemson led the ACC in kickoff coverage.
- Kickoff Returns - C.J. Spiller averaged 27.2 yards per kickoff return and finished 14th in the nation. He returned a kickoff off 96 yards for a touchdown against #24 Alabama in the season-opener, his third kickoff return for a score as a Tiger. He also had a 64-yard kickoff return in the win at Boston College.

Spiller & Ford Have Breakaway Potential

Juniors Jacoby Ford and C.J. Spiller are two of the top "home run" threats in college football and both return for the 2009 season. Spiller has 12 career touchdowns of 50 yards or more, already more than any other player in school history, while Ford has six, third-most in school history. Spiller had six as a freshman to establish a Clemson single-season record, while Ford had four that year.

Spiller had a 96-yard kickoff return for a score in the season-opener against #24 Alabama, his third kickoff return for a score of more than 80 yards. He added an 83-yard touchdown catch from Cullen Harper against Duke, the longest reception by a running back in Tiger history.

In terms of plays of 80 yards or more, Spiller has seven, also a Clemson record. He is the only player in Tiger history to record a play of 80 yards or more three different ways. Spiller had an 82-yard catch in 2006 at Boston College, an 83-yard run against #21 Auburn in the 2007 Chick-fil-A Bowl, an 80-yard run against South Carolina in 2006, and two kickoff returns for scores in 2007. He had an 84-yard return for a score against Duke and a 90-yard kickoff return for a score against Wake Forest in consecutive games in 2007. He added the 83-yard catch against Duke this season.

Ford has three plays of at least 80 yards in his career. He had a 92-yard punt return against Florida Atlantic and a 94-yard kickoff return against Louisiana Tech in 2006. He had an 82-yard kickoff return against Central Michigan in 2007.

Austin Three-Time ACC OL-of-the-Week

Offensive lineman Thomas Austin was named ACC Offensive Lineman-of-the-Week three times during the 2008 season. This marks the second straight year a Tiger has been named ACC Player-of-the-Week three times. Phillip Merling won the honor three times as a defensive lineman in 2007. Austin is the first Tiger offensive lineman to be honored three times in the same year since Stacy Long earned the honor three times in 1989, a year he was named first-team All-American.

Austin won the award for his performances against N.C. State, Boston College, and Virginia earlier this year. He finished the regular season leading the offensive line in starts (13), snaps (795), average grade (81.7), and knockdown blocks (98). No other Tiger had more than 60 knockdown blocks.

The junior from Camden, SC has won the award five times in his career, as he was the recipient against Central Michigan and South Carolina in 2007. The five tied for third-most in school history. The record for a career is seven, held by Keith Adams, who was chosen seven times from 1998-00.

Buchholz Breaks 18-Year-Old Record

A third major record went by the boards in Clemson's victory at Boston College on November 1. Mark Buchholz was a perfect 3-3 on extra points in the victory, giving him 73 consecutive made extra points. His last extra point broke the Tiger record for consecutive made PATs. Chris Gardocki had the record at 72 in a row from 1988-90. Gardocki was a perfect 72-72 in his career and Buchholz finished 88-88 in his career. Bob Paulling had a streak of 70 in a row between 1979-81 as well.

Davis Finishes 2nd in Rushing, TDs

Senior running back James Davis entered the 2008 season second in school history in career rushing yards (3,130). He finished in that position after gaining 751 net yards for the season. He concluded his career with 3881 yards, just 85 yards short of Raymond Priestler's career record of 3,966 set between 1994-97.

Davis set a school record in the win at Boston College. He scored on a 23-yard run in the first quarter, which was his 42nd career rushing touchdown. That broke the record of 41 that had been held by Travis Zachery (1998-01).

Davis finished with 47 career rushing scores and 49 touchdowns overall. He established a record for rushing touchdowns and was just one score short of Travis Zachery's overall touchdown record of 50. Davis is ninth in rushing in ACC history.

C.J. Spiller moved into 10th place on the Clemson career rushing list when he had 88 yards against South Carolina. He has 2,335 in his career and is in ninth place in school history entering the 2009 season.

Hamlin Second in Career Takeaways

Senior Michael Hamlin had six interceptions in 2008 and finished with 18 career takeaways, second-most in Clemson history. Only all-time great Terry Kinard has more with 19. Hamlin was 11th in the nation in interceptions this year as well.

Harper Moves Up Career Charts

Cullen Harper moved into second place on Clemson's career completions list and fourth on the career passing yardage list with his outing against Duke. Harper had 20 completions for 292 yards in that game. His passing yardage total was the second best of his career, trailing only the 372 passing yards he had against Virginia Tech in 2007.

Harper finished his career with 5762 yards passing, third-most in school history, trailing only Charlie Whitehurst, and Woodrow Dantzler. He is second in completions (518) and trails only Charlie Whitehurst (817).

Harper is also second in Clemson history in career passing efficiency and first in completion percentage. He has a 63.6 career completion percentage, far ahead of the 59.7 completion percentage by Whitehurst. His 135.0 career passing efficiency is just behind the 137.0 mark by Will Proctor (2003-06), his former teammate. Harper is also second in career passing touchdowns (42), trailing only Whitehurst (49). He moved ahead of Woody Dantzler with two touchdown passes in his final game against Nebraska.

Spiller Chasing Miller's Record

C.J. Spiller raced 96 yards for a touchdown with the opening kickoff of the second half against #24 Alabama on August 30 in the Georgia Dome. It was his third career kickoff return for a touchdown, tying the school record set by Justin Miller, who had three from 2002-04. Miller is now in the NFL with the Oakland Raiders and made the Pro Bowl as a return specialist in 2006. He had his fifth career kickoff return for a score this year.

It was the third kickoff return for a score in a six-game period for Spiller dating to last year. He had an 84-yard kickoff return for a score against Duke and a 90-yard kickoff return for a touchdown against Wake Forest in consecutive games last year. That was the first time in school history that a player had kickoff returns for touchdowns in back-to-back games.

Spiller had 152 kickoff return yards in the loss to #24 Alabama, tied for the seventh-highest total in school history. Ironically, he tied Miller, who had 152 yards on four kickoff returns against Maryland in 2002. Miller has the single-game record with 282, a total that is in fact an NCAA record.

Spiller has 1,297 career kickoff return yards, fifth-most in school history. He is in sixth place in Tiger history in kickoff return average (25.4).

Clemson has been outstanding in returning kicks the last 10 years. Spiller's kickoff return for a score against #24 Alabama was the team's ninth in the last 10 years. From 1951-98, Clemson had just five kickoff returns for scores. Clemson also went from 1963-86 without one.

In terms of punt returns for scores, Clemson has had six in the last 10 years after only totaling 12 between 1951-98.

Spiller's Four Ways to Score

Running back C.J. Spiller joined elite company on November 22 when he threw a touchdown pass in Clemson's 13-3 win at Virginia. On his first career pass attempt, he threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Tyler Grisham. It was the only touchdown for either team in Clemson's victory.

It was the first time since 1999 that a non-quarterback threw a touchdown pass for the Tigers. Placekicker Tony Lazara did it on a fake field goal at Virginia Tech that year. It was the first time since 1989 that a Clemson running back threw a touchdown pass. Terry Allen threw a 66-yard scoring pass to Gary Cooper at Virginia Tech that season.

So, each of the last three Clemson touchdown passes by non-quarterbacks have taken place in the state of Virginia.

That touchdown pass meant that Spiller has now accounted for a touchdown four different ways in his career. He has scored 20 rushing touchdowns, caught seven touchdown passes, and had three kickoff returns for touchdown for a total of 30 touchdowns. He still has another opportunity if he can return a punt for a touchdown.

Only three other Tigers in history have accounted for a touchdown four different ways during their respective career. Bobby Gage (1945-48) accounted for a touchdown via a run, pass, reception, and punt return. Chansi Stuckey (2003-06), now with the New York Jets, accounted for a touchdown via a run, pass, reception, and punt return.

Spiller Sets Reception Yardage Record

C.J. Spiller finished the season with 436 receiving yards. That is a Tiger single-season record for a running back, breaking the record of 414 by Travis Zachery (2001). Spiller led all ACC running backs in receiving yards and is in the top 10 in the ACC in receiving yards per game in ACC play.

Spiller had two 100-yard receiving games in the second half of the regular season. There had been just two 100-yard receiving games by Tiger running backs in the first 112 years of Clemson football. In 1948, Ray Mathews had 105 receiving yards against Mississippi State. In 1950, Jackie Calvert had 100 yards against Duquesne.

Spiller had 105 receiving yards at Boston College on November 1 on six catches and 108 yards on seven catches against Duke. The seven receptions tied a Clemson single-game record by a running back. Dick Bukowsky had seven catches against Florida State in 1970.

On a career basis, Zachery is Clemson's career leader among running backs in receptions and receiving yards. He had 105 catches for 1,057 yards and nine touchdowns. Spiller has 87 catches for 917 yards and seven touchdowns. Spiller is second to Zachery in all three categories among running backs.

Kelly Set Multiple Records

Aaron Kelly broke the Clemson career touchdown reception record at Boston College when he caught a four-yard scoring pass from Cullen Harper with 7:10 left in the game, a catch that gave Clemson a 24-21 lead on the way to a 27-21 victory. It was his 19th career touchdown catch and it broke the previous mark of 18 set by Glenn Smith (1949-51). Kelly had tied the mark with two scores against Georgia Tech on October 18. He was on the cover for that gameday program and there was also a feature on Smith in that program.

Kelly finished the Georgia Tech game with seven receptions for 122 yards and two touchdowns and added five receptions at #24 Florida State. He then broke the ACC reception record with 10 against Duke. He now has an all-time ACC-best 232 career catches.

The last record left for Kelly was the receiving yardage by a Tiger. He broke the record against Nebraska in his final game and finished with 2733.

Spiller Three-Time Player-of-the-Week

Each week, Clemson coaches select an offensive, defensive, and special teams player-of-the-week. A life-size poster is made to signify the award and it is hung in the football office in the McFadden Building.

C.J. Spiller was named offensive player-of-the-week three times this year and special teams player-of-the-week twice. He was offensive player-of-the-week against The Citadel, Maryland, and Boston College. He had 242 all-purpose yards at Boston College, including 105 on six receptions. He had a 96-yard kickoff return for a score against #24 Alabama to earn the special teams honor.

There were 11 different recipients for the defensive player-of-the-week in 2008, an example of how balanced Clemson is defensively.

Maye, Cloy Named First-team Freshman All-American

Clemson red-shirt freshman linebacker Brandon Maye has been named to the first-team Freshman All-America team by the Football Writers of America. Maye had 87 tackles this year in the 12 games he played, all as a starter, and he led all ACC freshmen in tackles this past season.

Maye's tackle total was the most by a Clemson freshman since Anthony Simmons had 150 in 1995. He was also named a second-team Freshman All-American by Sporting News, College Football News and Rivals.com and was a third team choice by Phil Steele's College Football Magazine.

The native of Mobile, AL played 545 snaps in 12 games and had five tackles for loss, two sacks and nine quarterback pressures. He also contributed three fumble recoveries to rank in the top 10 in the nation in that category. It was also a Clemson freshman record for fumble recoveries.

Mason Cloy, a starting guard on the Tigers team was named a first-team Freshman All-American by College Football News. He has also been named a second-team Freshman All-American by Rivals.com and is a third team choice by Phil Steele's College Football Magazine.

Cloy started the last 12 games for the Tigers and ranked second in knockdown blocks with 57. He tied the Clemson record for games started in a season by a freshman offensive lineman. Eric Harmon started 12 games in 1987.

Da'Quan Bowers was named an honorable mention freshman All-American by College Football News. The starting defensive end had 47 tackles this year to rank first among Clemson defensive linemen and was a big reason, along with Maye, that the Tigers ranked 10th in the nation in scoring defense. Bowers had six tackles in the Gator Bowl against Nebraska and had three tackles for loss. He was named Clemson's defensive MVP of the bowl game by media attending the game.

Dawkins Named to Pro Bowl for Seventh Time

Former Clemson All-American Brian Dawkins has been named to the NFL Pro Bowl for the seventh time in his celebrated career. With the selection, Dawkins has now been named to his league's all-star game more than any other former Tiger in any sport.

Dawkins and former Clemson All-American Michael Dean Perry had the previous record with six selections apiece. But, Dawkins now stands alone with a seventh selection. Dawkins has also made the Pro Bowl after the 1999, 2001, 2002, 2004, 2005, 2006 and 2008 seasons.

This season, Dawkins had 123 tackles, third best on the team, an interception, a team best four caused fumbles, a fumble recovery and five passes defended, helping the Philadelphia Eagles to the NFL playoffs. He has played 181 games, all with the Eagles, a recently established franchise record. He has 34 career interceptions and 20 career sacks.

Dawkins was also named one of three finalist for the Walter Payton Award, which is given to the NFL Man of the Year.

Eason Super Bowl Champion

21st Different Former Tiger to Win a Super Bowl Title

Former Clemson defensive tackle Nick Eason won his first Super Bowl Championship ring as a member of the winning Pittsburgh Steelers. The Steelers downed the Arizona Cardinals 27-23 in Tampa. Eason played as a reserve defensive tackle in the contest.

A Clemson starting defensive tackle between 1999-02, Eason was a first-team All-ACC player for the Tigers in 2002 when he had 62 tackles and seven sacks. He graduated in three years and played his final two seasons as a graduate student. For his career he had 153 tackles. He was also named the Most Valuable Player of Clemson's 2000 season defense.

This year, Eason played in 15 of the 16 regular season games and had 17 tackles, all as a reserve on Pittsburgh's number-one ranked defense. He had a season high four tackles in the first game of the year against Houston. It was his second year with the Steelers after three years with the Cleveland Browns and one year with the Denver Broncos.

Eason is the 21st different Clemson player to win a Super Bowl Championship ring, the first since Chris Gardocki was the starting punter for the World Champion Steelers of 2005. Eason is actually the fourth different former Tiger to win a Super Bowl Ring with the Steelers. In addition to Gardocki, Bennie Cunningham was a member of the Steeler championship teams of 1977 and 1978 and John McMaken was a member of the 1974 Steelers team that won a Super Bowl Championship.

HEAD COACH DABO SWINNEY

Dabo Swinney (pronounced DA-boh SWEE-nee) became Clemson's interim head coach on October 13, 2008 when Tommy Bowden stepped down after guiding the program for nearly 10 seasons. Then on December 1, 2008, the "interim" tag was removed, as he took over on a full-time basis as the Tigers' 25th all-time head coach. The 39-year-old had been Clemson's assistant head coach for two years and had been in charge of the wide receivers since the 2003 season.

Swinney, who had never been a head coach prior to the 2008 season, led Clemson to a 4-3 record in 2008. That mark included four wins in the last five regular-season games, with its only loss at #24 Florida State. That 4-1 record to end the regular season tied for the best mark in the ACC. Four of his six regular-season opponents were later bowl participants. His 4-3 record included a 2-1 road record, wins over Boston College and Virginia.

Swinney hit the ground running in his first week as interim head coach, as he prepared for a 5-1 Georgia Tech team. He had to reorganize his staff, and regroup his football team and Clemson Nation in just five days. While the Tigers lost a four-point decision, he accomplished many goals in that first week through his outstanding leadership qualities. One of the most impressive demonstrations of unity came during the team's "Tiger Walk."

Prior to the game, Swinney decided to have his team depart buses outside the Lot 5 parking lot near the WestZone at Memorial Stadium and experience the gameday atmosphere. Dressed in jackets and ties, the team was embraced by thousands of Tiger fans who stood 10 deep for the 200-yard march to the stadium. It was the centerpiece of his "All In" theme in his first week as head coach. It is a tradition that will continue in the future.

In his second week as head coach, an off-week, he invited the Clemson student body to a practice, and nearly 1,000 students showed up.

He spoke to the group and actually allowed some students to participate during practice, as they were selected to attempt a field goal, punt against a live rush, and field a punt. He also took the entire team to the Greenville Children's Hospital for a visit with young men and women fighting cancer.

The Tigers played at Boston College in Swinney's first-ever road game as head coach on November 1. Despite committing four turnovers and trailing in the fourth quarter, Swinney's troops rallied for a 27-21 win, giving Clemson its first victory over the Eagles since 1958. It also came against the eventual ACC Atlantic Division champion.

The Tigers suffered a 41-27 defeat at #24 Florida State a week later, but they rebounded to trounce Duke 31-7 at Memorial Stadium by out-gaining the Blue Devils 466-168 under Swinney, who also served as offensive coordinator during the second half of 2008. Clemson showed its road prowess the following weekend by claiming a 13-3 victory at Virginia.

Rival South Carolina awaited for the final regular-season game. Against one of the SEC's best defenses, the Tigers used a balanced attack (184 rushing yards, 199 passing yards) to top the Gamecocks 31-14 at Memorial Stadium. Clemson also had four interceptions against Steve Spurrier's offense and held it to just 22-47 passing for 212 yards. The following week, the Tigers accepted an invitation to play in the Gator Bowl against Nebraska, a game in which the Cornhuskers were victorious by a score of 26-21.

The 1993 Alabama graduate joined the Clemson staff prior to the 2003 season. In his six years, the Tigers have finished in the top 25 of the final polls three times and totaled 10 wins over top-25 teams, including victories over Florida State (4), Miami (FL) (1), and Tennessee (1), during his tenure in Tigertown.

Swinney has coached his wide receiver position to a level of consistency that has not been seen previously at Clemson. He has had a wideout finish first or second in the ACC in catches each of the last five years. In his first year, he had three of the top-10 receivers in the ACC, a first in Tiger history. He coached a First-Team All-ACC wideout every year from 2004-07 (three different players), also an unprecedented feat at Clemson.

In 2004 and 2005, Swinney coached the ACC reception champion (Airese Currie in 2004, Chansi Stuckey in 2005). It was the first time Clemson had two different wideouts lead the ACC in receptions in consecutive years. In 2007, Aaron Kelly led the league in yardage, giving Swinney an ACC receiving king three out of four years. Stuckey earned First-Team All-ACC honors in back-to-back years, a first for a Clemson wideout in 25 years. He is now one of the top wide receivers for the New York Jets.

The play of Swinney's wideouts was a big reason Clemson led the ACC in total offense, rushing offense, and scoring offense in 2006, just the second time an ACC team led the conference in all three areas in the previous 25 years. Clemson also led the ACC and established school records for touchdowns (55) and yards per play (6.5).

In 2007, he coached Kelly, a First-Team All-ACC selection who led the conference in receiving yards per game and touchdown catches (11). He also finished second in receptions per game with a school-record 88 catches, tied for the second-highest total in ACC history. His 11 touchdown catches were a Tiger record as well.

Kelly is Clemson's and the ACC's career reception leader with 232 catches. He also owns the school touchdown reception record with 20. The previous record of 18 was held by Glenn Smith, who established the record in 1951.

The Alabama native has a reputation as one of the top recruiters in the nation. In February of 2006, he was listed as the fifth-best recruiter in the nation by Rivals.com. It marked the second straight year that he had been lauded by the website as a top-25 national recruiter. He has signed 38 players in his five recruiting seasons and was a major reason Clemson's 2008 recruiting class was rated #2 in the nation by ESPN.com when he signed 11 players. He was named one of the top-25 recruiters in the nation by Rivals.com in 2007 as well.

When Swinney accepted the interim head coaching position on October 13, 2008, he described his feelings as "bittersweet" because he was taking over for Bowden, who had been his first position coach at Alabama in 1989. He had also brought Swinney back to the coaching profession in 2003 and has had a profound effect on his life. Both had followed similar paths as players, as Bowden was a walk-on at West Virginia and Swinney was a walk-on at Alabama.

Swinney received a commerce & business administration degree from Alabama in 1993 after lettering three times (1990-92). A walk-on who went on to earn a scholarship, Swinney was a wide receiver on Alabama's 1992 National Championship team. He was also named Academic All-SEC along with being an SEC Scholar-Athlete Honor Roll member in 1990 and 1992.

Along with his appearance in the 1993 Sugar Bowl, his Alabama teams played in the

HEAD COACH DABO SWINNEY

1990 Sugar Bowl, 1991 Fiesta Bowl, and 1991 Blockbuster Bowl. Both Sugar Bowl appearances came after winning the SEC Championship game.

After his playing career, Swinney served as a graduate assistant coach from 1993-95 at Alabama, where he coached in the 1994 Gator Bowl and 1995 Citrus Bowl. In December of 1995, he received a master's degree in business administration from Alabama.

He became a full-time assistant coach at Alabama in February of 1996 under Head Coach Gene Stallings and coached a total of five seasons there on a full-time basis. He was assigned to coach the Crimson Tide's wide receivers and tight ends in 1996, a season that saw Alabama win the SEC Western Division title and make an Outback Bowl appearance. The following year, he solely coached the tight ends under Head Coach Mike DuBose.

In 1998, he coached Alabama's wide receivers, a position he held for three seasons. At the end of the 1999 campaign, Swinney coached the Crimson Tide in the 2000 Orange Bowl after winning the SEC Championship game. Wide receiver Freddie Milons was the game MVP.

Since 1997, he has had 15 former players either drafted or sign free-agent contracts with NFL teams. The list includes Currie, Derrick Hamilton, Kevin Youngblood, Stuckey, and Milons, an All-American who is still second in career receptions at Alabama.

During his time at Alabama, Swinney was a part of six years of at least 10 wins, five top-10 finishes, one national title (1992), three SEC championships (1989,92,99), and five SEC Western Division titles (1992,93,94,96,99) as a player and coach. He has coached the #2 receiver at Alabama (Milons) along with the #1 (Kelly) and #2 (Hamilton) receivers in Tiger history.

From April of 2001 through February of 2003, Swinney was in private business in Alabama. He married the former Kathleen Bassett in 1994. They have three sons, Will (10), Drew (8), and Clay (5).

#72 LANDON WALKER

Offensive Tackle
6-5 • 300 • *So. • 1VL
North Wilkesboro, N.C.
East Wilkes HS

Overview: Red-shirt sophomore offensive tackle who has come on strong this year...starter in 10 games and played 12 games overall...had a 74-percent grade, third-best on the team...has 26 knockdown blocks, sixth-most on the team...played 672 snaps, second-most among offensive linemen...began the season as a reserve offensive tackle behind Cory Lambert, but moved into the starting lineup when Chris Hairston was injured...did not play at all against #24 Alabama, but that is the only game he missed...played 23 snaps as a reserve against The Citadel and had a 72-percent grade...made his first career start against N.C. State and played 60 snaps...started 10 of the last 11 games...had a 77-percent grade in 48 snaps against S.C. State...had three consecutive grades of 78 percent, his high grades of the year...had a season-high five knockdowns against South Carolina...his father Gary was a member of Clemson's 1981 National Championship team and was on the sidelines the last time Clemson played Nebraska in the 1982 Orange Bowl...started and played 66 snaps against Nebraska.

Prior to 2008: Red-shirted in 2007...enrolled in January of 2007 and participated in spring practice...PrepStar All-American at East Wilkes (NC) High School...Shrine Bowl selection...majoring in business administration...born Mar. 9, 1989.

#96 DAWSON ZIMMERMAN

Punter
6-1 • 200 • So. • 1VL
Lawrenceville, Ga.
Brookwood HS

Overview: First-year freshman who began 2008 as the starting punter...had quite a challenge in that first game in that he was playing against #24 Alabama on national television in the Georgia Dome; but he played well with four punts for a 40.0-yard average...first freshman to punt for the Tigers in an opener since Cole Chason (2003)...had an ongoing battle with Jimmy Maners for the starting punting role all season...was supposed to be the starting punter against N.C. State, but pulled a hamstring in pregame warmups...came off the bench to punt five times at #21 Wake Forest; he had a 38.4-yard average, two punts inside the 20, and one punt of 50+ yards; he had a season-best 38.4-yard net figure...started at punter against Georgia Tech and had three punts for a 36.7-yard average...appeared in three games; they took place in the first seven games of the season...did not play in the last five games...had a 38.5-yard average for the year and a net of 36.3...has a long punt of 54 yards along with two punts inside the 20 and two of 50+ yards...should have the inside track to be the starter in 2009.

Prior to 2008: Rated as the #2 punter in the nation by Scout.com...#6 kicker in the nation by ESPN.com...played at Brookwood (GA) High School...all-state punter by the Georgia Sportswriters Association...attended the same high school as Jason Elam...majoring in English...born November 15, 1989.
